Their service took courage, commitment, and the willingness to put duty ahead of self. For many, it also meant long stretches away from their families, and we thank those families today as well.

The names and photos of our own veterans are shown here. They come from different branches and different generations, and they bring to our clients and our firm the same discipline, judgment, and integrity that defined their military service. To our veterans: on behalf of the firm, thank you. We are proud of your service and proud to call you our colleagues.

Akerman Proud. Akerman Strong.
