January 21, 2022

Labor and Employment associate Ashlea Edwards appeared on the JaxBar Podcast to discuss her involvement in the Jacksonville legal community. She spoke about her time as president of the Young Lawyers Section for the Jacksonville Bar Association, what made her want to become a lawyer, and the work that she does now as a Fourth Circuit representative to the Florida Bar Young Lawyers Division. She also offered advice to any lawyers new to the Jacksonville area on how to get involved.

“Don’t be shy,” Edwards said. “I really would just encourage you to take it all in, but also be an active participant in your practice and in the Fourth Circuit and in your community here.”
