

People

Edward Machado

Of Counsel, Intellectual Property

Chicago

T: +1 312 870 8036

edward.machado@akerman.com

vCard

Edward Machado focuses his practice on securing patent protection for client innovations. He has facilitated hundreds of patent applications from drafting, through office actions and examiner interviews, to issuance. He has handled patent applications across various industries, including related to: automotive computer circuitry, battery monitoring, website advertising and sales, online search queries, petroleum equipment and exploration, heart defibrillators, hematology analyzers and medical diagnostic equipment, paper-based food dispensers, kitchen equipment, railroad components, and business methods.

Edward is a former research and development engineer, having worked at both Zenith Electronics Corp. and Motorola Corp. (now Motorola Mobility Corp.). He also worked on in-house patent licensing teams, giving him a deep understanding of the practical issues and concerns his clients face.

Related Professional Experience

- Motorola Mobility, Principal Member of Technical Staff, 2001-2005
- Zenith Electronics Corp., Research and Development Engineer

Areas of Experience

Intellectual Property
Patent Prosecution and Portfolio Management

Education

M.S.E., University of Illinois at Chicago
J.D., Chicago-Kent College of Law
B.S.E.E., University of Illinois at Chicago

Admissions

Bars

Illinois