

In The News

Akerman Partner Amy Moor Gaylord Shares Her Most Out-of-the-Ordinary Union Negotiations with Law360

June 21, 2022

After a Los Angeles federal judge dismissed the notion that the presence of a rabbi during a bargaining session between radiology company RadNet Management Inc. and the National Union of Healthcare Workers excused the radiology company from delaying contract negotiations, Law360 contacted Traditional Labor Law Practice Co-Chair Amy Moor Gaylord in Chicago to hear her wildest and most memorable stories during negotiations.

Gaylord said, “I was negotiating a first contract for one of my clients, and my client and the union business agent almost came to fisticuffs during negotiations... I was thinking, what is happening now? What is going on here?”

Click here to view this news.

Related People

Amy Moor Gaylord

Related Work

Labor and Employment
Traditional Labor Law

Related Offices

Chicago