Matt Schroeder's Promotion to Dallas Office Managing Partner Noted in Law360; Schroeder and Scott Meyers Quoted

January 9, 2023

Matt Schroeder's promotion to Office Managing Partner in Dallas appeared in Law360, highlighting Schroeder's experience as a leader and litigator.

In an article titled "Insurance Litigator Tapped to Lead Akerman's Dallas Office," Akerman Chairman and CEO Scott Meyers was quoted: "Matt is an outstanding lawyer viewed both by his clients and colleagues as a trusted adviser and natural leader. He has deep ties to the Dallas community and is strongly committed to our firm and our culture. We welcome him to our management team and look forward to his many contributions."

The article continued: "The firm noted Schroeder's work representing major insurance companies in litigation matters that present an extreme risk of loss," pointing to his "particular experience in insurance coverage issues related to environmental risks...He advises insurers on coverage issues and disputes, environmental regulatory compliance and future risk mitigation."

"I am excited to leverage the talents of our extraordinary team of lawyers and professionals in Dallas, as well our strong national platform and resources, to advance the interests of our clients, serve the Dallas community, and grow our footprint,” said the article, quoting Schroeder. It continued, “Schroeder said plans for the Dallas office involve focusing on growth of client relationships, growth of the office itself and growth of the firm’s connections to the Dallas community.”

“Our goal is to build lasting relationships across these three components because that is the essence of Akerman and the secret to our success — building trust and delivering an unparalleled experience through superior service,” Schroeder said.

News of Schroeder’s appointment also appeared in Bloomberg Law.
