Nora Rigby Reviews CFPB Moves on PACE, Payments and More

July 12, 2023

The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau continues to tighten its grip, this time focusing on “abusive” conduct, PACE, and digital payments.

In a new article published by Law360, Consumer Financial Services, Data and Technology Practice Partner Nora Rigby breaks down the CFPB’s latest policy changes, which include broadening how it defines abusive conduct by companies. Rigby also discusses the bureau’s three separate actions targeting digital payment companies and its proposed rule on property-assessed clean energy financing, commonly known as PACE financing.
