Ensuring business integrity has never been more important, as multinational companies face new and complex challenges to operating lawfully and ethically in a global economy. This interactive seminar will run through a scenario of an investigation of a fraud within a business from its discovery to the end of the investigation. Attendees will work through the issues with each other in a roundtable discussion that is moderated by Attorneys from Akerman and Stephenson Harwood. The discussion will consider the challenges that occur during the course of investigations, including labor & employment issues, risk management, and media inquiries.

Designed for professionals from Legal, Finance, Human Resources, and Compliance, participants will gain practical insights, perspectives from various corporate roles, and ample opportunity for interactive discussions with counterparts and moderators.
