Betsy Hodge Quoted on Cyber Attacks' Threat to Patient Safety

August 6, 2024

In a new article, Akerman Healthcare Partner Betsy Hodge tells industry publication Healthcare Info Security that recent cyber attacks on healthcare institutions show that more than patient data is at risk.

“Increasingly, we see that these attacks not only affect organizations’ ability to access their patients’ health data, but also the organizations’ ability to provide safe care to patients,” she told the publication.

The article discusses supply chain issues that followed a ransomware attack on a Florida-based blood center and Hurricane Debby making landfall on Monday.
