October 24, 2024

Akerman once again has been recognized as a “Prestige Leader” by Law360 Pulse, which ranks the top 100 U.S. law firms that are “first-in-class when it comes to legal industry cachet.” The report is based on an analysis of four key metrics — financial performance, reputation among attorneys, editorial awards won, and positive legal media mentions — to provide a holistic representation of law firm prestige.

“Our recognition as a Prestige Leader is a testament to the trust Akerman’s clients place in our firm, the exceptional level of talent we have, and the tremendous results we achieve working together as a team,” said Akerman Chairman and CEO Scott Meyers. “Our success is directly attributable to our high-trust culture, which drives our relentless desire to delight our clients, support our colleagues, and serve our communities.”

This latest ranking from Law360 Pulse follows Akerman again being named to the annual “Vault Law 100,” a national ranking of the most prestigious law firms based on the assessments of lawyers at peer firms. Vault’s list is determined based on the viewpoints of more than 20,000 outstanding lawyers from across the industry. These rankings follow other notable industry recognitions this year, including from Chambers USA, The Legal 500, and
