

In The News

Akerman Partners Caroline Mankey and Joshua Mandell Awarded 2024 Firm Attorney Visionaries by Los Angeles Times

November 18, 2024

Litigation Partner Joshua Mandell and Intellectual Property Partner Caroline Mankey have been selected as the recipients of the 2024 Firm Attorney Visionaries by Los Angeles Times B2B Publishing. The annual award recognizes standout thought leaders and power brokers in the legal industry who have made significant career accomplishments and impact in the community.

With broad litigation experience in business and real estate disputes, Josh is a versatile and skilled litigator, trial lawyer, trusted counselor, and problem-solver. Josh devotes his practice to all aspects of business litigation, including breach of contract matters, fraud claims, and business torts. He has a wide-ranging practice spanning multiple sectors and varied clients. He represents large and small business owners, national financial institutions, secured lenders, commercial landlords, commercial tenants, property owners, and real property receivers. Josh has extensive experience resolving matters in state and federal court and through arbitration and mediation.

Caroline is a seasoned trial lawyer representing clients in disputes involving copyrights, trademarks, trade secrets, defamation, licensing and other contract rights, rights of publicity, business interference, and partnership disputes. Her clients

Related People

Joshua R. Mandell
Caroline H. Mankey

Related Work

Intellectual Property
Litigation

Related Offices

Los Angeles

span the entertainment, arts, fashion, retail, and technology sectors and include motion picture studios and production companies, major media companies, film libraries, actors, comedians, television personalities, musicians, artists, jewelry designers, manufacturers, architects, and market research firms.