vCard

David McConnell is a litigator specializing in property and casualty insurance law, with experience handling both federal and state legal issues. David represents insurers in complex coverage disputes, making initial coverage determinations, and conducting in-depth analyses of claim files and insurance policies.

David counsels clients in every stage of litigation, from drafting pleadings and dispositive motions to arguing and defending motions in court, as well as managing post-judgment proceedings. He is also committed to resolving cases through nonjudicial means and has also represented clients in mediation.

Beyond insurance matters, David represents clients in a variety of complex commercial disputes. His practice includes handling contract disputes, default and foreclosure actions, antitrust matters, fraud claims, and cases involving the Telephone Consumer Protection Act (TCPA) and Florida Telephone Solicitation Act (FTSA).
