Akerman will host the U.S.–Mexico Strategic Real Estate Investments Summit at its Miami office. This event is a premier gathering designed for investors seeking opportunities on both sides of the border. Focused on fostering cross-border collaboration and real estate investment between the United States and Mexico, the summit brings together developers, investors, business leaders, and public officials to explore strategic ventures in a rapidly evolving market.

Through keynotes, expert panels, project pitches, and networking sessions, participants will gain critical insights into real estate trends, regulatory frameworks, and innovative projects shaping both countries.

The event offers a unique platform for building cross-national partnerships, exchanging ideas, and positioning firms at the forefront of international real estate development. With over 70 industry leaders expected in attendance, the summit serves as a high-impact forum for those seeking direct engagement with key decision-makers, interesting investment opportunities in real estate, and great
