chair of Akerman's national Real Estate Practice Group, which is ranked sixth by Law360 among the largest teams of real estate lawyers in the United States. "Our Los Angeles office already includes a distinguished and growing group of lawyers experienced in complex commercial real estate transactions, development and redevelopment projects, and litigation matters. These additions are part of our continuing commitment to serve clients in Southern California and throughout the region with on the ground expertise, providing counsel on all aspects of commercial real estate projects."

Ellen Berkowitz, Partner

Berkowitz provides land use counsel to clients involved in real estate development throughout California, with a particular emphasis on Southern California. She represents clients before government agencies in connection with land use approvals and compliance with the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA), and also assists clients in related litigation, primarily arising from project challenges under CEQA and other land use regulations.

Berkowitz regularly represents developers and property owners within the retail, residential, and industrial sectors, seeking to make more productive use of their properties. Additionally, Berkowitz has an extensive background in governmental advocacy and represents clients in connection with local government contracting issues, compliance with governmental regulations and political reform for a variety of sectors including airport concessions, billboards, energy, advertising, pipeline franchises, restaurants, health, and sports and entertainment.

Berkowitz is recognized by the Daily Journal as one of the 25 best land use lawyers in California and by Los Angeles Magazine as one of the "Women Leaders in the Law." She is a founding member and secretary of the Los Angeles Business Council Institute, past president of California Women's Law Center, and serves on the executive committee of the Central City Association of Los Angeles.

Lisa Kolieb, Partner

Kolieb regularly appears before planning commissions, city councils, and other governmental agencies in matters involving land use approvals, environmental and regulatory permits, and local discretionary approvals associated with alcohol licensing on behalf of real estate developers, owners, retailers, and other clients. She regularly conducts land-use due diligence evaluations for property owners, developers, and institutional lenders. Her experience also includes substantial work with CEQA, the Subdivision Map Act, the Mello Act, and the Public Records Act. Kolieb represents clients in connection with government contracts and bid protests, and is well-versed in providing political and public relations assistance to both private sector and public sector clients. She also assists clients with land use litigation, defending development projects against CEQA and other land use-related claims.

Brady McShane, Partner

McShane advises clients on political, regulatory, and environmental issues involved in developing controversial projects in California. His practice focuses on securing land use approvals, regulatory permits, and environmental clearance from government agencies, directing public policy and government relations strategies, and counseling clients on land use issues pertaining to the acquisition, disposition, and financing of properties. McShane works with developers, landowners, financial institutions, and builders. McShane has extensive experience with CEQA, the Subdivision Map Act, the Coastal Act, the Mello Act, and other local, state, and federal ordinances, regulations, and statutes. Active in the community, he serves on the board of directors and executive committee of the Special Olympics Southern California and is a member of the Southern California Association of Governments Global Land Use Economic Council and Central City Association of Los Angeles.

Ellen Castillo, Senior Urban Planner

Castillo has extensive experience in planning and entitling residential development, commercial, hotel/resort, and industrial projects in California. She provides advice regarding local planning and zoning regulations, state land use regulations, including the California Subdivision Map Act and other local, state, and federal planning and zoning statutes. She specializes in due diligence research and project analysis, coordinating and managing project teams, expediting land use applications and permits, and working cooperatively with public agency officials. Castillo also is a U.S. Green Building Council LEED[®] accredited professional.

Mark Y. Liu, Partner

Liu focuses his practice on cross-border corporate finance, mergers and acquisitions, private equity investments, and joint venture transactions with an emphasis on Asian markets. He counsels clients on a broad range of corporate, securities, and business-related matters, including public and private securities offerings, corporate governance, Securities and Exchange Commission reporting and corporate compliance matters. Liu frequently counsels U.S. companies looking to expand their footprint in Hong Kong or Mainland China. Prior to joining Akerman, he served as group legal counsel at Amicorp Ltd. He is a member of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce of Los Angeles and the Organization of Chinese Americans — Greater Los Angeles. He also speaks fluent Chinese (Mandarin).

Michael Weiss, Partner

Weiss brings more than 20 years of experience handling complex commercial litigation. He focuses his practice on real estate litigation, commercial and business disputes, and complex insurance insolvency matters. His real estate litigation practice includes multimillion dollar easement, entitlement, and contract disputes on behalf of Fortune 500 real estate investment trusts, commercial lease and purchase disputes and transactions, and real estate partnership disputes and workouts. On the insurance side, Weiss is among a select group of lawyers in California who handle conservation, rehabilitation, and liquidation of insurance companies. His insurance practice also concentrates on regulatory matters and reinsurance. As a commercial litigator, he has managed all aspects of litigation, including jury and bench trials, mediations, and arbitrations. Weiss spent four years with the California Attorney General's Office where he served as lead counsel handling complex business, real estate, tax, insurance insolvency, and regulatory cases for the State of California before state, federal and appellate courts.

Other notable laterals who recently joined the Los Angeles office include real estate partners William "Bill" Ellis, Jane Hinton and Herman Enayati; litigation partner Joshua Mandell, and labor and employment partner Rachel Schumacher.
