Andy Cantore is a seasoned financial executive and CPA with more than three decades of experience advising organizations on complex financial operations, tax strategy, and regulatory compliance. He brings a deep background in corporate finance, treasury operations, risk management, and process optimization, with a record of delivering measurable results for Fortune 100 companies, financial institutions, and healthcare organizations.

Andy's consulting work is informed by his extensive leadership tenure at global financial institutions, where he managed large-scale operating budgets, guided multimillion-dollar investments, and improved financial performance across diverse business lines. His expertise spans financial reporting, budgeting and forecasting, corporate and personal income tax matters, cash flow optimization, and IRS audit representation. He is also experienced in mergers and acquisitions, portfolio management, and financial system integrations.

Known for his pragmatic, solution-oriented approach, Andy partners closely with clients to streamline processes, strengthen controls, identify risk, and build financial strategies aligned with long-term business objectives. He has led enterprise-level transformation initiatives, negotiated complex financial transactions, and improved operational efficiency through data-driven methodologies and cross-functional collaboration.

Before beginning his consulting practice, Andy held senior finance leadership roles at Citigroup, CNA Financial, GE Capital, and a nonprofit hospital organization. He has served as a trusted advisor to executives, boards, and cross-functional teams, bringing financial clarity and strategic insight to mission-critical initiatives.
