Andrew Smulian Looks at Legal Services Through Clients' Eyes in Miami Herald

March 9, 2015

Andrew Smulian, Akerman Chairman and CEO, continues to be quoted in The Miami Herald on important issues impacting the South Florida business market. As a member of the publication's CEO Roundtable, Smulian addressed how the threat of rising sea-levels in Miami affects Akerman's business strategies.

Smulian was quoted, "We're most concerned about what keeps our clients up at night, and how we can adapt our business to serve their needs. We have clients whose projects and long-term business strategies may be impacted by rising sea level, and we are working right beside them to protect their interests."
