Erin Maddocks focuses her practice on complex commercial litigation, fiduciary dispute resolution, and litigation involving contested trusts and estates. She has litigated in state and federal courts and has experience litigating a wide range of complex commercial matters, including breach of contract, professional liability and legal malpractice defense, and shareholder disputes.

Erin's experience in probate and trust litigation includes will and trust contests and cases involving capacity, undue influence, determination of beneficiaries, homestead challenges, powers of attorney, spousal elective share, estate claims, breach of fiduciary duty, and tortious interference with inheritance.

Notable Work

Estate Tax Litigation: Represented the widow of prominent author Tom Clancy in a much-publicized decision in 2016 when the Maryland Court of Appeals affirmed a lower court decision exonerating a trust for her and her daughter from the payment of estate taxes.

Legal Malpractice: Represented a law firm in a successful resolution of claims of negligence and breach of fiduciary duty relating to execution of testamentary documents in $300 million estate.

Claims of Breach of Fiduciary Duty: Represented a client against a broker-dealer for breach of fiduciary duty based on a binding arbitration agreement executed by the trustees. Prevailed on issue of first impression requiring non-signatory trust beneficiaries to arbitrate claims.

Representation in Will and Trust Contest: Represented the surviving spouse in defense of numerous claims of fraud, undue influence, and incapacity in $30 million estate and trust.
