

Practices

Government Affairs and Public Policy

As the current administration aims to restructure major parts of the U.S. government, widespread impacts are likely for almost every public entity and business in the country. With the future of healthcare, transportation, financial regulation, education, federal spending, and tax policies in question, great uncertainty—and potential upheaval in virtually every sector—is looming.

Akerman is ideally positioned to represent our clients' business interests amid changing political times. With years of government service, both in the House and Senate and in federal agencies, and decades of experience in private practice, members of our federal Government Affairs and Public Policy Practice Group are capable of handling our clients' most important legislative, public funding, and regulatory issues. Our bipartisan team successfully combines an insider's perspective with legal know-how to create highly customized strategies to achieve each client's unique public policy objectives.

”Combining an insider’s perspective with legal know-how to achieve client objectives.

Beyond Washington, D.C., our team includes former state legislators, local officials, agency division

Connect With Us

LaKeisha C. Marsh

Chair,
Government
Affairs and Public
Policy Practice
Group
Chair, Higher Education and Collegiate
Athletics Practice
+1 312 634 5739

Our Team

Related Work

Cannabis
Environment and Natural Resources
Policy and Regulation
Federal Appropriations
and Government
Funding
Financial Services
Higher Education and Collegiate Athletics
Insurance Regulation
Local Government
Advocacy
State Legislative and
Executive Lobbying
Transportation
Regulation and Policy

directors, and corporate executives who guide businesses through state and local policy matters in major U.S. markets, including Florida, Illinois, New York, and Texas.

What We Do

- Federal appropriations
- State legislative and executive lobbying
- Local government advocacy
- Higher education policy and regulatory compliance
- Environment and natural resources policy and regulatory compliance
- Energy policy and regulatory compliance
- Healthcare legislative and government affairs
- Transportation and infrastructure policy
- Insurance regulatory compliance
- Native American affairs and Tribal Governments regulatory counseling
- Travel and tourism policy
- Disability policy
- Foreign government advocacy