Commercial Disputes

In today's increasingly competitive marketplace, commercial disputes are oftentimes unavoidable. With the risk of financial and reputational harm, litigants need seasoned legal counsel with a proven track record for effectively resolving disputes.

Akerman's Litigation Practice Group has a long and successful history of defending and prosecuting commercial disputes throughout the Americas. Our work has earned recognition from U.S. News – Best Lawyers, Law360, Benchmark Litigation, Chambers Global, and Chambers USA, which commends our “impressive national network” and notes that our “solid team is well-versed in handling complex commercial litigation.”

Our national team delivers multijurisdictional capabilities with sector-focused, trial-tested expertise. We effectively bridge the gap between the boardroom and the courtroom with lawyers who are highly skilled in both project management and business issues. Also, with deep experience in alternative dispute resolution, we establish aggressive negotiation positions so that clients can appropriately align or mitigate litigation risks with business objectives.

When litigation is the best option for our client, we maximize efficiency by effectively utilizing the right subject matter experts and customized project management tools to coordinate uniform litigation strategies that can be implemented in various localities. This gives clients a consistent litigation approach that can be tailored for local jurisdictions.
