

eDiscovery Services

Practices

Continual advances in hardware, software, and the ubiquity of social media and mobile devices have created a dizzying array of data types at rates and in volumes that grow exponentially each day. To manage the ever-growing volume of structured and unstructured data, clients rely on Akerman eDiscovery Services to deliver the people, processes, and tools to keep costs in check while satisfying legal obligations. Our team of fully dedicated lawyers, technologists, and project managers bring years of experience and utilize cutting-edge tools, including advanced data processing software, predictive coding, artificial intelligence, among others, to help clients realize the benefits, and manage the burdens, of the vast trove of digital information created every day.
