Healthcare Legislation and Government Affairs

Transformative political change in Washington, D.C. has ushered in a new era of healthcare reform and potential revisions to the nation's healthcare laws. The ongoing debate about federal healthcare policy leads to uncertainty for providers and payors throughout the healthcare sector.

Comprising former federal and state elected officials and staff from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services and other agencies, Akerman's Healthcare Practice Group has extensive experience with federal and state lobbying on—and monitoring of—healthcare policy, legislative initiatives, tax reforms, and appropriations. Our team includes former senior members of the Florida Office of Insurance Regulation, the Florida Agency for Health Care Administration, and the state legislature. As change in health policy continues to shape the business of our healthcare clients, we provide the key advice, guidance, and action they need in a range of domains—on Capitol Hill, in the White House, with state legislatures, or with federal and state agencies.
